Pee Dee Country... the place to stay and play in northeast South Carolina!

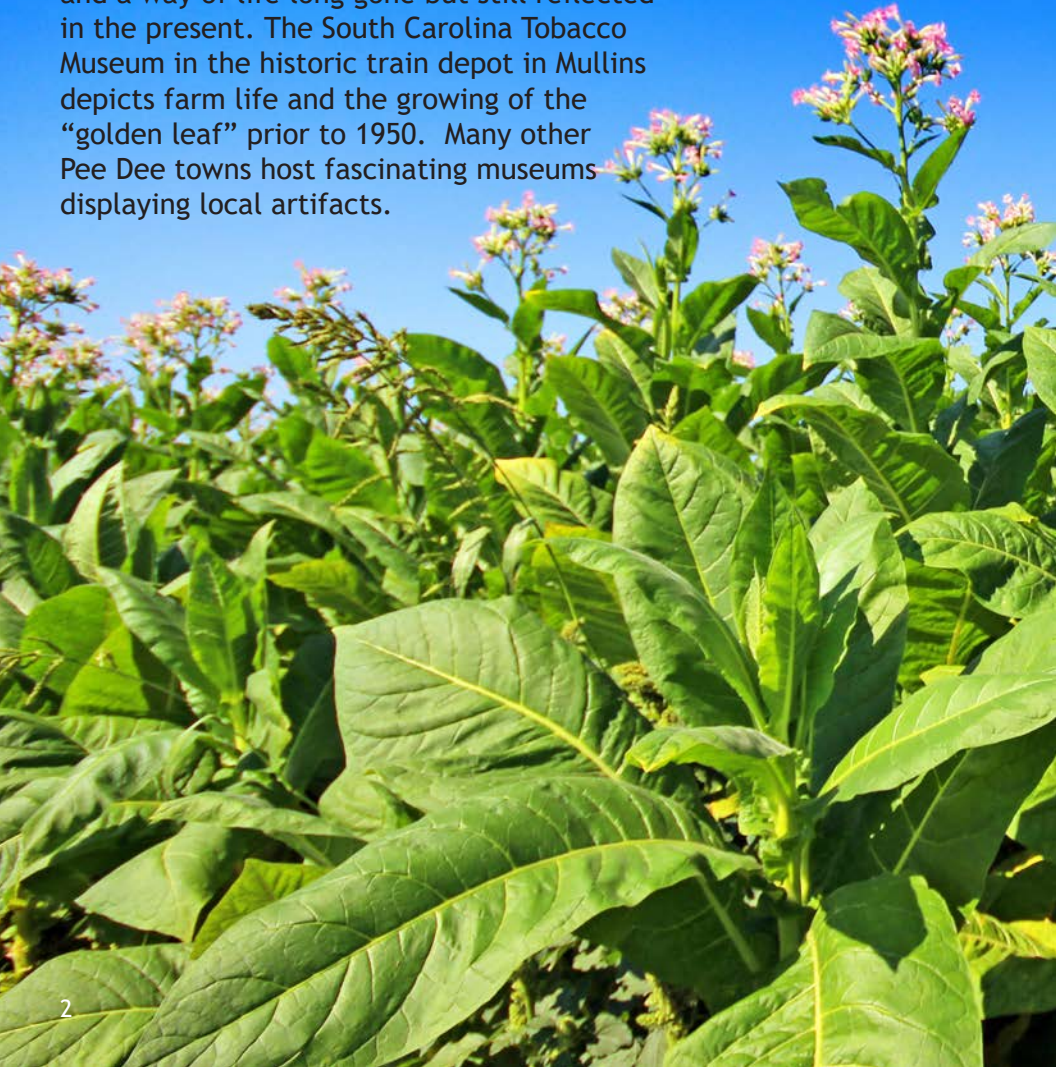

This seven-county region, named for the Pee Dee Indians who inhabited it long ago and subsequently the Pee Dee Rivers, still offers the natural wonders that attracted the Native Americans and early settlers.

Abingdon Manor Bed and Breakfast, Latta

A sparkling gem of nature's best, Pee Dee Country has a unique combination of scenic areas as well as a history spanning both Revolutionary and Civil War times, reflected in its wonderfully preserved historic homes, plantations, and buildings.

The Pee Dee is the ideal place to experience the heritage of the old South agrarian lifestyle and its relaxed way of life. Both cotton and tobacco played an important role in the region's early growth. The South Carolina Cotton Museum in Bishopville has preserved the legacy of the cotton culture and a way of life long gone but still reflected in the present. The South Carolina Tobacco Museum in the historic train depot in Mullins depicts farm life and the growing of the "golden leaf" prior to 1950. Many other Pee Dee towns host fascinating museums displaying local artifacts.

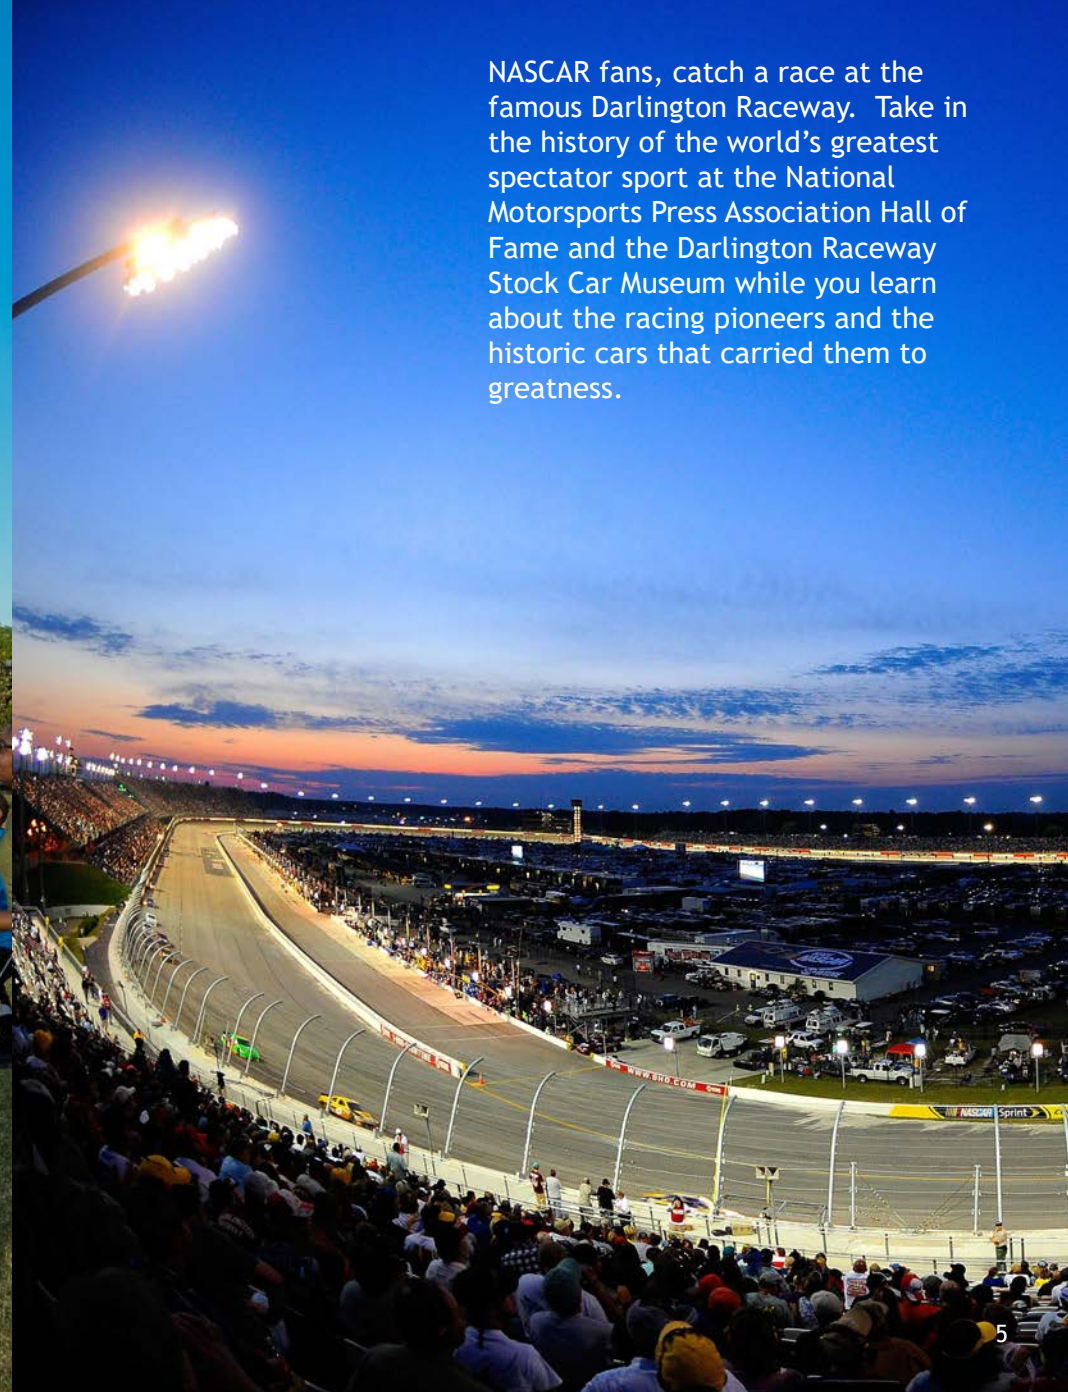

Pee Dee Country offers three beautiful state parks and natural areas, many local parks and four scenic rivers, including the SC Revolutionary Rivers National Water Trail. The area also has 11 challenging and affordable golf courses. It's no wonder that outdoor activities are popular here. Come chip, cycle, fish, hike, paddle, putt, and just have fun!

While you're here, enjoy the entertainment of one of our many local festivals. Good food, good times, and a glimpse of our history are found in the SC Tobacco Festival, Golden Leaf Festival, and in festivals celebrating traditions involving pecans, sweet potato, shag dancing, Greek cuisine, and catfish. Sankofa and Arts International Festival are truly unique.

NASCAR fans, catch a race at the famous Darlington Raceway. Take in the history of the world's greatest spectator sport at the National Motorsports Press Association Hall of Fame and the Darlington Raceway Stock Car Museum while you learn about the racing pioneers and the historic cars that carried them to greatness.

TRAVEL PLANNING CHECKLIST

Lively entertainment

Check the calendar for concerts and musicals at Center Theater, Florence Center, Marion Opera House, Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, and nightclubs that have live music “on tap.”

Family-friendly activities

Make great memories riding horses at Deer Creek Ranch, kayaking down the Little Pee Dee River, and picking strawberries at Dargan Farms.

Delectable local foods

Map out your stops along the BBQ Trail, hitting restaurants serving a variety of sauce flavors: mustard, vinegar, light tomato, and heavy tomato.

Hands-on experiences

Learn a new skill in a comfortable setting: make wheel-thrown pottery at Olio Studio, take a cooking class at Abingdon Manor, and paint rustic signage at The DIY Place.

Treasure hunting

Find something that makes you smile. Pick through our nearly 50 antique and resale shops, or place the highest bid at So-Lina Auction.

Relaxing evenings

Wind down at Mantissa’s rooftop bar, star gaze during a moonlight paddle on the Black River, or simply enjoy the fresh air while dining outdoors.

DARLINGTON COUNTY

Darlington • Hartsville • Lamar • Society Hill

Neptune Island Water Park

Darlington County is best known as the home of the Darlington Raceway, NASCAR's oldest superspeedway, which opened in 1950 and remains a major stop on the NASCAR circuit.

Racing spills over into related attractions such as the Darlington Raceway Stock Car Museum and National Motorsports Press Association (NMPA) Hall of Fame, as well as a beautiful outdoor area called the Liberty Lane Walk of Fame, with handprints honoring NASCAR drivers who have won at Darlington Raceway.

Darlington County is also a showcase for historical attractions such as the Jacob Kelley House in Hartsville that briefly served as a headquarters for General Sherman's army during the Civil War. There's also West Broad Historic District in Darlington that offers a collection of intact residences that were constructed between 1890 and 1928, most of which are Victorian or Queen Anne style with decorative woodwork. These were built by architect and master carpenter, Lawrence Reese, an African American who moved from Marlboro County to Darlington in the 1880s.

There is plenty of natural beauty to see in the county as well. Hit the walking trails at Kalmia Gardens in Hartsville for a descent of 60 ft. to explore a true blackwater swamp along the banks of Black Creek. Discover over 300 types of plant and animal species at Williamson Park in Darlington, a 70-acre cypress swampland woodland preserve.

Looking for family fun? Head to Hartsville to spend the day at Neptune Island, a seasonal waterpark offering activities from mild to wild! At the EdVenture Children's Museum, ride the carousel then hop on the stage for a one-of-a-kind performance.

DILLON COUNTY

Dillon • Hamer • Lake View • Latta

Have you ever ridden a glass elevator up 200 feet to reach a giant sombrero? Dillon County is home to one of the most famous travel stops on I-95 – South of the Border! This unique Mexican motif recreation area is marked by its distinct sombrero-shaped observation tower, and it features numerous attractions plus restaurants, shopping, and lodging.

For thousands, the Dillon area is synonymous with the word “marriage.” The well-known Dillon Marriage Chapel performs over 7,000 ceremonies a year. People have been flocking to Dillon to get hitched since 1911.

If you’re looking for lavish accommodations or a six-course prix-fixe dinner, look no further than Abingdon Manor - a 10,000 square foot, seven-room inn offering tranquility and opulence.

Dillon County has preserved its past with a number of unique museums and structures listed on the National Register of Historic Places. See an example of Beaux-Arts style at the Dillon County Courthouse, and Spanish Colonial architecture at the Dillon County Theatre.

Watch grassroots racing under the lights at Dillon Motor Speedway, explore 835 acres of the South Carolina Sandhills Region at Little Pee Dee State Park, and don’t skip the delicious pulled pork at Shuler’s Barbecue.

Blenheim Ginger Ale was originally bottled in Blenheim, a small town in Marlboro County. Alan Shafer, owner of South of the Border, loved it so much that he bought the company and began producing the ginger ale on the grounds of South of the Border in the 1970s. Blenheim Ginger Ale's recipe incorporating blazing Jamaican ginger heat hasn't changed in over 100 years.

FLORENCE COUNTY

Coward • Florence • Johnsonville • Lake City • Olanta
Pamplico • Quinby • Scranton • Timmonsville

*General Francis Marion sculpture in Johnsonville
by Alex Palkovich*

Conveniently located at the intersection of interstates 95 and 20, Florence offers a wide range of dining, the latest in entertainment, an array of outdoor recreational activities, a lively downtown with boutique shopping and more than 4,000 quality hotel rooms.

Florence is home to the SC Revolutionary Rivers paddling trail, a 66-mile National Water Trail highlighting the Southern Campaign of the American Revolution. This trail offers paddlers a captivating experience of floating through swampland that was once traversed by Patriots engaged in guerrilla warfare against the Loyalists and British, and also features a unique platform campsite accessible only by water.

Get nutty in Florence and Lake City by hopping on the SC Pecan Trail, a culinary and retail trail featuring 20+ local restaurants putting pecans in the spotlight in everything from pecan pie martinis to pecan encrusted grouper to White Russian pecan pie. Visit participating businesses, collect stamps with each purchase, and turn in your stamped passport to snag some cool pecan swag!

Florence Center, the largest convention, meeting and exhibition facility in northeast South Carolina, is the place for a variety of live entertainment shows and conventions, as well as social gatherings. The FMU Performing Arts Center and Florence Little Theatre, both in Downtown Florence, offer a variety of high-caliber performances year-round.

Surrounded by scenic farmland vistas, Florence offers an abundance of beautiful parks and natural areas. Walk among the trees on the canopy walk at Lynchess River County Park, spy alligators from the boardwalk at Woods Bay State Park, take in the beautiful sculptures by Alex Palkovich and pay homage to local veterans at the Florence Veterans Park. Also, discover “Paradise Found” in Lake City at Moore Farms Botanical Garden, a dynamic yet informal 65-acre garden featuring plant displays, natural landscapes, and focal art pieces.

Melvin Purvis, an agent of the newly formed FBI, brought down criminals John Dillinger, Baby Face Nelson, and Pretty Boy Floyd in the 1930s.

As Purvis became a household name, he gained a cult following. Post Toasties cereal packed comic strips in the boxes, urging children to join the Junior G-Man Corps to earn prizes, including a badge and secret decoder ring.

Purvis was born in Timmonsville, SC (Florence County), and he was junior partner at Willcox Law Firm in Florence (now Willcox, Buyck, and Williams, P.A.) before joining the FBI in 1927. After retiring, he returned to Florence to live, operating a radio station.

LEE COUNTY

Bishopville • Lynchburg

In Lee County, “cotton is king”, and has been for over two centuries. In the fall as you ride through the beautiful county, you will see acres of white cotton fields, ready to be picked. Aside from the budding agriculture, Lee County offers its visitors beautiful gardens, parks, stunning architecture, museums, and statues honoring local heroes, veterans, and the military.

At the Bishopville Memorial Park, you can view the Gratitude Merci Train, as well as the statue of James D. Heriot, Lee County’s only Medal of Honor recipient. At the South Carolina Cotton Museum in downtown Bishopville, you can take in the early years of cotton as well as see what we’ve dubbed the world’s largest boll weevil. Historical buildings that feature unique architecture (and friendly folks), such as the Lee County Court House (c. 1908) and Opera House (c. 1890), can be seen in Bishopville’s historic downtown as well.

Lee County is also home to:

- 2,800 acres of pristine wetlands with Lee State Park
- the internationally recognized Pearl Fryar Topiary Garden
- a unique, roadside artesian well that produces crystal clear drinking water
- the one-of-a-kind Button Museum filled to the brim with button-covered items
- and the legend of the SC Lizard Man.

ATTRACTIONS

Artesian Well

487 Loop Rd. (located in Lee State Park), Bishopville
People drive from miles around to partake in its crystal-clear water.
After having a drink, enjoy a meal at the lovely picnic area.

Bishopville City Hall

135 E. Church St., Bishopville
803-484-5948
Open Monday - Friday 9:00am-5:00pm

Bishopville Flag Park

Corner of Main St. and W. Cedar Lane, Bishopville
The park displays eleven flags. Six flags honor our men and women in uniform, four flags represent governments, and the POW/MIA flag. The statues in the park are a tribute to Felix "Doc" Blanchard, South Carolina's only Heisman Trophy recipient.

Button Museum

53 Joe Dority Rd., Bishopville
803-428-3841
fb.com/thebuttonmuseum
The Button Museum remains a memorial to Dalton Stevens, a one-of-a-kind character who stayed up late to sew and glue buttons on everything he owned. See his collection, including a button-covered Chevrolet Chevette and an outhouse. There is no admission fee, but donations are accepted. Please call to schedule a visit.

Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune Park

1175 Mary McLeod Bethune Rd., Mayesville
803-428-3621
This 9-acre park is being maintained by The National Council of Negro Women, Lee County Section, as a memorial and the birthplace of Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune. She was a noted educator who founded Bethune-Cookman College in Florida and an activist serving as president of the National Council of Negro Women. Call ahead for guided tours.

Historic Downtown Bishopville

Enjoy shops, unique architecture, and friendly folks! Most of the buildings were constructed between 1890 and 1920. The buildings are used for commercial purposes, such as stores, restaurants, offices, and banks.

Lake Ashwood

9 miles off I-20 on US Hwy. 15 S.
Lake Ashwood is a 75-acre lake for fishing and boating. The area also offers a picnic area, and it is handicapped-accessible.

Lee County Veterans Museum

121 W. Cedar Lane, Bishopville
803-484-4497
sccotton.org
The Lee County Veterans Museum features exhibits that trace conflicts from the American Revolutionary War to present conflicts. Every branch of service history is represented. The "Elvin Price Collection, Aerial War in the Pacific" includes a Japanese flag captured on Guadalcanal, Doolittle's Raiders memorabilia, and a piece of the Enola Gay. Visitors enter the museum through the SC Cotton Museum. Open Monday - Saturday 10:00am-4:00pm. Adults: $6.00, Seniors 60+: $4.00, Students: $3.00, Age 5 and younger, and Active Military: free.

Lee State Park

487 Loop Rd., Bishopville
803-428-5307
southcarolinaparks.com/lee
Lee State Park was built in 1935 to provide residents of Lee County with riverside recreational opportunities. Bottomland hardwood forest wetlands make up most of the park's 2,839 acres. This popular park features equestrian facilities, boat access to Lynch's River, artesian wells, and fishponds. Popular activities include fishing, hiking, picnicking, and birdwatching. Open 9:00am to sunset, daily. Admission is free.

A MAN NAMED PEARL

The Pearl Fryar Topiary Garden in Bishopville is artistic, inspirational, and to many horticulturalists, innovative. It is the culmination of 40 years of Pearl Fryar's dedication and willingness to experiment with his hedge trimmer. Many of the plants were salvaged from a local nursery, destined to become remarkable pieces of living art.

In 1984, Pearl began his topiary garden on three acres of farmland at his home. After 12-hour shifts, he'd returned home, working sometimes through the night, creating intricately shaped topiaries.

As a self-taught topiary artist, he has been featured in a documentary, A Man Named Pearl. In 2008, he appeared in a John Deere commercial. Two years later, Martha Stewart filmed his garden. In 2015, Pearl Fryar Topiary Garden was listed as one of the top 50 gardens in the US by The Garden Conservancy.

Recently, the McKissick Museum at USC partnered with Atlanta Botanical Garden, the WeGOJA Foundation, and the Garden Conservancy to provide assistance to maintain Pearl's garden. Landscape artist Mike Gibson has picked up the trusty hedge trimmers and is returning Pearl's garden to its former splendor.

MARION COUNTY

Marion • Mullins • Nichols • Sellers

Marion County, named for Revolutionary War hero General Francis Marion, proudly preserves its past with many historic buildings and museums.

The Marion Historic District offers about 1,150 acres and some 90 buildings that are representative of the various styles of classically derived nineteenth century architecture. Within its borders you'll discover styles ranging from Romanesque Revival, Gothic Revival, Queen Anne and Colonial Revival to the raised cottage style typical of the Pee Dee Region.

The Amazing Grace Park is a relaxing area with a tribute to State Senator and the Reverend Clementa Pinckney and the eight church members killed in 2015 at the A.M.E. Mother Emanuel Church in Charleston.

The South Carolina Tobacco Museum features exhibits of local farm life before 1950 and celebrates the important role tobacco farming played in the local economy and life. Be sure to stick around for the 15-minute video offering interviews with warehousemen and farmers recounting the days when tobacco was king.

Become one with nature on the Marion Hike and Bike Trail, a two-mile track that traces a portion of an abandoned railroad line that originally extended from Mullins in the east to Sumter in the west.

Shop 'til you drop at the Golden Leaf Antique Market, housed in a virtually unaltered tobacco warehouse c. 1926, and check out the Marion Emporium for a variety of gifts and estate items.

MARLBORO COUNTY

Bennettsville • Blenheim • Clio • McColl • Tatum

Marlboro County has always been one of the richest agricultural counties in South Carolina. Cotton made this area one of the wealthiest in the state prior to the American Civil War and up to the early 1900s. Legend has it that the land is so rich it was once sold by the pound instead of the acre!

The lifestyle and affluence of those bygone years are captured and preserved in the stately Victorian, Queen Anne and Greek Revival style homes and public buildings throughout the county.

Step back in time at the Bennettsville Visitors Center to see original marbled slate mantels, heart pine floors, gas light fixtures, chandeliers, and more dating back to the 1800s. Visit one of the oldest theaters in the state, the Marlboro Civic Center. Built in 1917, this former historic opera house was once a major stop for vaudeville and musical shows on the New York to Miami circuit.

Stop in Blenheim and take a drink from the Blenheim Mineral Springs. Discovered in 1781 by a soldier during the Revolutionary War, the water from this spring was once used in the manufacturing of Blenheim Ginger Ale.

Stroll Downtown Bennettsville for delightful, locally owned shops and eateries. Check out Breeden's - they've been offering quality meats since 1926. Stop by McArthur Farms for delicious Certified SC Grown produce. Walk the picturesque trail that encircles beautiful Lake Paul A. Wallace. Get a taste of real-deal southern cuisine at Stanton's Barbecue & Fish Camp, a unique fly-in restaurant that's been serving up delicious food for over 30 years.

The tour leads visitors to see key historical sites:

- Shiloh Baptist Church (121 Cheraw St.) is the oldest black congregation in Bennettsville. The adjacent parsonage was the childhood home of Marian Wright Edelman.
- Shiness (100 Fayetteville Ave.) is a Georgian Revival brick house built in 1903, named after the first owner's family home in Scotland.
- The Jennings-Brown house (121 S. Marlboro St.), c. 1826, served as the headquarters for the Union army which occupied Bennettsville in 1865.
- Marlboro Civic Center (106 Clyde St.) was once on the vaudeville circuit.

- Magnolia (508 E. Main St.), c. 1853, was built by Chancellor Johnson, a signer of the SC Ordinance of Secession.
- Breeden Inn and Breakfast (404 E. Main St.), c. 1886, is a Beaux-Arts style house with a two-story semicircular porch.
- The Marlboro County Courthouse (Main and Broad Streets) is pictured below.

McArthur Farms is a delightful place to pick up produce and seasonal flowers. Just south of Bennettsville on Hwy. 38, it also holds a strawberry festival in the spring and sets up a corn maze in the fall. The Pumpkin Smashing Festival in November is truly a mess of fun!

WILLIAMSBURG COUNTY

Andrews • Greeleyville • Hemingway • Kingstree • Lane • Stuckey

Williamsburg County is situated at the southern tip of the Pee Dee and holds treasures of historical interests dating back to the 1700s. Kingstree was settled in 1732 when Calvinists from Ireland built clay shelters on the banks of the Black River at “the King’s Tree,” a tall white pine used as the mast for royal ships.

The towns that make up Williamsburg County offer some of the state’s most beautiful and historic buildings, including the Williamsburg County Courthouse, built by Robert Mills in 1823, and Thorntree House c. 1749, which is believed to be the oldest house in the area.

The history of the county spans both Revolutionary and Civil War times and is reflected in preserved buildings and in the Williamsburgh Historical Museum, originally constructed as a Carnegie Library.

The area’s natural beauty compliments remnants of history with its proximity to Black River. This free-flowing river offers dark, inky black waters from tannins in the surrounding swamps. White sandbars glisten at low levels. Shouldered by a ribbon of dense, undisturbed forest, Black River provides a home for many endangered species.

The county also offers some of the most delicious BBQ and country cooking around. Scott’s Bar-B-Que in Hemingway serves up a vinegar-based sauce with a little kick. Pick up a BBQ sandwich, some hot boiled peanuts and a smoked ham at Cooper’s in Salters, a 20th-century two-story country store. Belly up to the buffet at Brown’s Bar-B-Que in Kingstree for their signature spicy barbecue.

Built as a store with living quarters on the second floor, Cooper's Country Store (originally named Burrow's Service Station) has served the rural Salters area as a convenience store, BBQ hotspot, and fuel station since 1937. There is a screened-in closet with country hams hanging from the ceiling, nearby the building supplies section. It's truly a memorable shopping experience.

Scott's Bar-B-Que has been serving up whole hog, pit-cooked BBQ since the 1970s when Rosie and Ella Scott opened a carryout restaurant in Hemingway. It was here that Rosie and Ella's son Rodney learned the art of cooking whole hogs over a wood-burning pit.

As Scott's BBQ with its vinegar-pepper-based sauce gained in notoriety, Rodney Scott expanded to Charleston, Birmingham, and Atlanta. He was named Best Chef: Southeast by the James Beard Foundation in 2018.

Chubby Checker grew up in Spring Gully, a small community between Kingstree and Georgetown, SC. His hit song, “The Twist,” was named the biggest chart hit of all time by Billboard magazine in 2008. Other hits included “Limbo Rock” and “Let’s Twist Again.”

As “The Twist” was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 2018, Chubby Checker noted that the twist dance style brought couples to face each other without touching, and gave them a real workout. It was this craze that brought about exercising to music.

SC BARBECUE TRAIL

The birthplace of BBQ: It all started about 500 years ago, along the SC coast, when the Native Americans who were cooking meat over a pit filled with burning wood met up with some Spaniards who were raising hogs...

Most likely, the favored sauce back then was made from vinegar and pepper. South Carolina now boasts four types of sauce: mustard, vinegar, light tomato, and heavy tomato. The Pee Dee region has BBQ joints that serve all types.

Stanton's Barbeque in Bennettsville is a fly-in restaurant with its own 2300' grass runway. Starting in the 1970s, owner Charles Lindbergh (Lynn) Stanton listened for low flying aircraft and radioed to invite the pilots to dine at Stanton's. A bulletin board in the dining area holds photos of planes that came in too fast, only to skid off the runway.

sctrails.net/trails/trail/kalmia-gardens-segars-mckinnon-heritage-preserve Accessible from Kalmia Gardens of Coker College, this 30-acre preserve is home to rare plants, such as the Venus flytrap, and unusual natural communities. This preserve has a series of trails and boardwalks where you can view Black Creek and the swamp. Open dawn to dusk, year-round.

SC Revolutionary Rivers Trail
66 miles of Lynches River in Florence County
visitflo.com/rev-rivers

The SC Revolutionary Rivers Trail is a National Water Trail following the Lynches Scenic River from Lynches River County Park to the cypress and tupelo laden stumping grounds of Revolutionary War hero General Francis Marion. The fact Marion and his band of militia could simply disappear into the cypress swamplands earned him the name of the Swamp Fox. Coordinated through Florence CVB, the 66-mile trail offers paddlers a unique experience of floating through swampland that was once traversed by Patriots engaged in guerrilla warfare against the Loyalists. The trail also features a series of short excursions and overnight rustic camping opportunities provided by local outfitters.

Williamson Park
400 Williamson Park Dr., Darlington
843-398-4000
sctrails.net/trails/trail/williamson-park

In 1928, Bright and Margaret Williamson gave more than 50 acres of land to the people of Darlington to create Williamson Park. The park now includes approximately 70 acres of cypress forest. Boardwalks, bridges, and footpaths provide ample opportunity for visitors to see more than 300 plant and animal species that flourish here. Open from dawn to dusk.

Woods Bay State Park
11020 Woods Bay Rd., Olanta
843-659-4445
southcarolinaparks.com/woods-bay

This park offers a close-up look at one of the last remaining large spring-fed Carolina Bays on the Mid-Atlantic Coastal Plain. This 1,590-acre park features a wide range of habitats, including marsh, sandhills, oak-hickory forest, and shrub bog. It has a 1,150-foot boardwalk extending into the bay, canoe rentals, nature trails/programs, and a picnic area. As this is a stopping point for migratory fowl, no commercial spraying is performed. Bug spray is recommended during mosquito season. Open daily 9:00am-6:00pm. Admission is free.

GROWING IN THE FIELDS

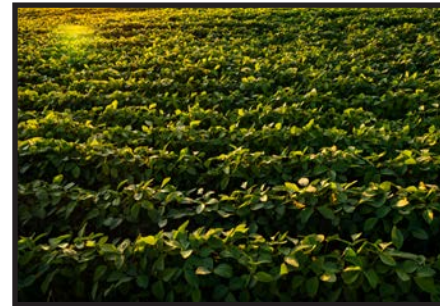

While you're driving in the Pee Dee, you're bound to see specialty crops growing. These photos may help you identify them as you delve into the area's agricultural heritage.

Peanuts are typically planted in May and harvested three months later, when the leaves start to turn yellow and the peanuts fill the pods.

Quick facts: Peanuts are legumes, meaning they are not actually nuts, but peas. The tastiest boiled peanuts are those made from freshly picked green peanuts.

Soybeans are planted from May to early July and harvested in late October through December.

SC has a long growing season, and fields are often planted twice each year.

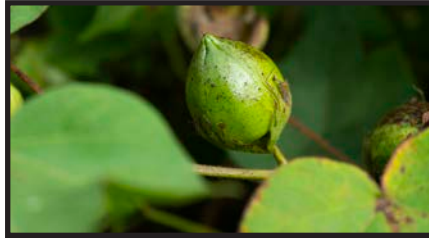

Quick facts: The majority of soybean meal is used to feed poultry and livestock. Only 3% is consumed by humans. Soybean oil is used as a vegetable oil for cooking, as a biofuel, and may be added to tire rubber for better traction.

COTTON

Cotton is typically planted in May. Three months later, the flowers bloom.

The flowers drop, leaving a pod/cotton boll.

As the cotton matures, it splits the boll.

The plants are defoliated, and cotton pickers remove the cotton from the bolls.

Pickers transfer the cotton to be packed into modules equalling 13-15 bales. It is stored in the field until a cotton gin can process it.

Cotton gins remove seeds, preparing cotton for mills and seeds for oil production.

You may spot round bales, also. These are packed by modern pickers that drop them in the field when the bale is full. This process is more efficient than using the large modules, as the round bales can be moved more easily, and the module packer is not necessary.

Cotton isn't always white. Naturally colored cotton may be in shades of red, green, and brown.

This cotton press in Latta is thought to be the oldest in existence. It was built in 1798 and was rotated by mules to tighten the press on bales of cotton. It is on the site of Bicentennial Farm. The historical marker is on SC Hwy. 38 near I-95 exit 181A.

Quick facts: Until the 1950s, farmers used Cotton Patch Geese to pull the weeds from around the newly planted cotton. Around here, they were called cotton-pickin' geese.

Coker Farms in Hartsville developed the first cotton breeding program in the US, creating a strain of cotton that would not be affected by boll weevils. Coker Pedigreed Seed Company still plants experimental crops in Hartsville. More seed information can be found at the Coker Farms National Historic Landmark.

The SC Cotton Museum in Bishopville covers the cotton industry from early times to present day.

TOBACCO

Tobacco seeds are grown in greenhouses during the winter months.

Tobacco setters are used to plant tobacco in the spring.

Tobacco prefers sandy or clay loam. It is harvested when the leaves begin to turn yellow, about 100 days from planting.

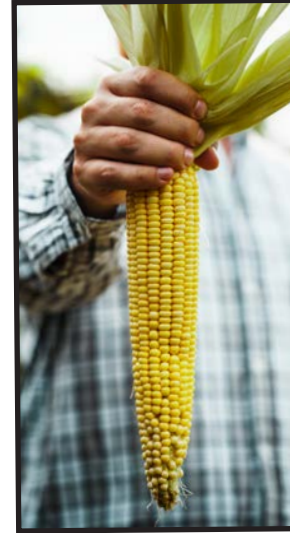

In SC, the leaves are harvested from the bottom as they mature.

Quick facts: The lowest leaves on the stalk are called “sand lugs” because of the amount of dirt that collects on them. In the past, the harvested leaves were strung onto tobacco sticks and hung in barns to dry. You may still see remnants of the barns as you drive through the rural areas.

CORN

Quick facts about corn: Sweet corn is planted in late March or April, and is harvested 90 days later. If you see dried corn on stalks, it is most likely field corn, grown for corn meal, ethanol, and to feed deer and livestock. This crop is also a favorite of raccoons.

PEACHES

Quick facts about peaches: South Carolina produces more peaches than Georgia, known as The Peach State. Cling peaches ripen in early summer. Free stone peaches, which break away easily from the pits, are ripe in June and July.

The Pee Dee is truly a land of the past, present, and future.
